ROYAL HUSBAND PICKED FOR RUMAN PRINCESS

MRS. SHAW SLAIN. POLICE CHIEF TESTIFIES

Mattapoisett, Dec. 11 (N.S.).—Chief of Police William Potter caused a sensation this afternoon when he testified at the double inquest into the death of J. E. Noron Shaw, prominent attorney and former Harvard football player, and his wife, that, in his opinion, Mrs. Shaw's death was "deliberate murder," that Shaw's financial affairs was the cause which led up to the double shooting.

3 HUB MEN $46,000 SWINDLE ACCUSED IN

DYING WOMAN, HUSBAND AND SON OF NASHUA, N. H. NAMED FRAUD VICTIMS

Charged with swindling a farmer and his son out of $46,000, two Boston stock salesmen, Harris A. Dewitt and John Hammond, were named today in warrants obtained by the police of Nashua, N. H., according to Police Chief Goodwin of that city.

A Boston lawyer may also be involved, police say. The names of the men involved are suspected to be fictitious. They are believed to be in Boston and a Boston police inspector was assigned to search for them.

It is alleged the pair represented themselves to J. Frank Hammar of Nashua as agents of a corporation in which he was a stockholder and sold him the corporation's new issued stock, inducing him to turn over securities and cash to the amount of $40,000, and his son to turn over $5,000.

Hammar's wife is said to have been dying at the time and the Boston men, it is charged by the police, took advantage of her weakened condition to get her to sign over valuable stocks owned by her. Relatives of Hammar intervened in time to save the farm.

PHONE GIRL APPEALS BAN FOR 'INCIVILITY'

For "incivility to a superior officer," Miss Ames, V. Haley, telephone operator in the office of the Secretary of State, has been suspended for ten days without pay. The charge against her was that she had "insulted" a female employee, which will set the State House agog, was brought by the State deputy secretary, Miss Carolyn B. Seaton. Miss Haley of Belmont, Mass., was charged with being "insolent" to him while in the proper performance of his duties. Secretary of State Frederic W. Coolidge said the charge against Haley was officially brought to his attention.

Miss Haley, taking advantage of her rights under the law, has asked for a hearing before the Civil Service Commission from the Secretary on Monday.

ILEANA TO BE BRIDE OF ITALY'S NEXT KING

Bucharest, Dec. 1. (AP)—Princess Ileana will marry Prince Humbert, Crown Prince of Italy, within six months if King Ferdinand lives, or as soon thereafter as the period of mourning closes, should the monarch die.

The Associated Press has been given exclusive rights in circles close to the Royal Palace.

Ileana, youngest daughter of King Ferdinand, is 20 years old, is 17 years old Humbert is 22.

The betrothal of the Princess and the Prince, so the story goes, was arranged at the time of the Italo-Rumanian convention, last September, when among other things Rumania obtained a credit of 200,000 lei from Italy. The convention at the time aroused great criticism in Rumania owing to the fact that the credit embraces mostly material for a railroad. The government objected to taking possession of it, declaring it old and obsolete.

RUM A LEAD-PIPE CINCH —BEFORE THE PINCH

HANDY FAUCET PROVIDES "CHASER," TOO
One could get "well heeled" in this shoe shop at 717 Tremont street before raiders put the awe in awl. Diagram shows how tank on third floor supplied rum on tap in the first floor by merely turning a cut-off on a water pipe. Turning it back provided the "chaser." It was a lead-pipe cinch, but it didn't last!

REDS INVADE HUB TO ORGANIZE STRIKE OF GARMENT WORKERS

A Red invasion of Boston with the object of calling 15,000 Hub garment workers on strike, is definitely under way.

Agents of the Third Internationale of Moscow, who have fomented serious labor troubles in New York, are either in Boston or are planning to come here for a mass meeting of needle workers scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Among the leaders who will address the communistic meeting to be held in Scenic Auditorium, No. 12 Broadway, are: Harry Campbell, head of the Needle Trade Section of the T. U.; Joseph J. Burdick, president of the Joint board of the Furriers' Union, New York; J. Borshowitz, leader of the present garment strike in New York, and Louis H. Ramochnik, head of the Needle Trade Section of the T. U.

EXPECT MORE ARRESTS AT EAST BRIDGEWATER

East Bridgewater, Dec. 11.—Armed with riot guns, deputy sheriffs and imported Brockton policemen today stood guard over the Old Colony Foundry and the homes of several strikebreakers, prepared to prevent recurrence of the riot and bloodshed that brought tenser to charges of assault and battery on policemen and disturbing the peace. Seven days after the riot, during which a shotgun, fired to the foundry today under command of Sheriff Earl P. Blake of Plymouth County, had strike pickets, refusing to be intimidated, shot and wounded a patrolman, over the fallow of war broke

As a result of the business-like guard that has been established peace reigned around the mill gates, where three hundred strikers and several strikers arrested in the rioting of yesterday were arraigned and released in $500 bail each for trial on Monday.

Eleven more arrests will be made, the news revealed, if those arrested and to be arrested those

2 THUGS SHOT IN BOLD HOLDUP ON BROADWAY

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.)—Two of five gunmen who attempted to hold up wealthy patrons of Lindy's restaurant in Broadway were shot by a policeman in a pistol battle today. The wounded men were thrown into an automobile by their comrades and all escaped.

The gunmen had just stopped her automobile to enter the restaurant when Patrolman Glennon arrived. Without warning, one of the men opened fire at him. Glennon returned the fire and the other gunman also turned their guns on him. More than twenty shots were exchanged, the bullets striking the granite front of the Rivoli Theatre and smashing glass nearby. Glennon, who had emptied his re-

DOHENY AND FALL'S FATE UP TO JURY NEXT WEEK

The end of the three weeks of testimony was hastened unexpectedly by the decision of counsel for Fall to present no evidence beyond the statements of two character witnesses heard just before adjournment yesterday.

MCCORMACK HEARD.

Responing their case for a moment, the Doheny lawyers called John McCormack, the singer, who vouched for the good reputation of John.

"I know of no man," McCormack said, "who has a higher reputation for honesty, integrity and patriotism."

He had known the oil man, he added, for 15 years.

In a short recital the prosecution then produced further testimony that Fall had withheld information from the Senate Oil Committee and that the government's arrangement with the Doheny company was not looked upon with enthusiasm by some officials of the Navy Department.

It is possible the jury will be sent to hear continuation from 10 to 11 o'clock of next week to decide whether a punishable offense was committed when Doheny sent Fall $100,000 in a little black bag in 1921 when Fall was Interior Secretary and before Doheny of interests received a lease on the Elk Hills oil reserve.

GOVERNMENT REBUTTAL.
In presenting rebuttal for the prosecution Attorney General J. Roberts sought to impeach Robinson's testimony by comparing it with what he said in the civil suit two years ago.

Robinson said, Roberts read from the record that Fall had broached the subject of oil storage and transfer of crude oil for fuel oil at the October conference. Robinson told the Los Angeles court that at that time he was opposed to the proposal, but Fall argued for it.

John S. Holland, clerk to Senator Walsh (D) of Montana, during the time the latter was prosecuting the Senate oil investigation, testified that when he first searched the files the letter Doheny wrote Fall on November 23, 1921—the first letter on the oil transaction—was not there. Later Holland got the letter from H. P. Smith, former director of the Bureau of Mines.

DYNAMITE SAYS DENBY.
Roberts then offered the minutes of a navy council meeting at which Secretary of the Navy Denby said: "This oil leasing business is both difficult and dangerous. It is full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

Fall's counsel then offered the minutes of a navy council meeting at which Secretary of the Navy Denby said: "This oil leasing business is both difficult and dangerous. It is full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

FRAZIER BACK IN G. O. P. FOLD

Washington, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—The peace treaty negotiated by administration leaders with the insurgent line of the Senate was confirmed today when the Republican committee on committees returned Senator Frazier (R) of North Dakota to "good standing" in the party.

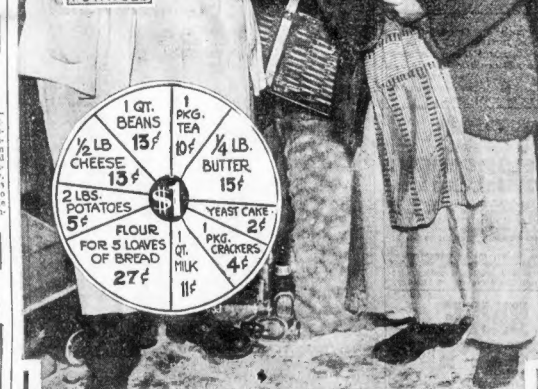

Frazier was given back all his old seniority rights and returned to the Indian affairs committee. He will become chairman of this committee in the next Senate.

WHAT $1 A WEEK MEANS TO POOR

MOTHERS MUST SEND CHILDREN TO BED HUNGRY UNLESS—
That extra dollar the city has been talking about taking off the poor does is the difference between poverty and want. It means just one dollar's worth of food for hungry mouths. It means an armful of groceries, such as this old lady has bought. It means a supper—with a rather miserable one—even nights a week for little children whose bodies and minds, already undernourished, absolutely demand the food that dollar buys. Persons so unfortunate as to require dollars will be cold and hungry if the extra dollar—which isn't an extra dollar at all—is taken from them.

LOSS OF FOOD IN DOLLAR CUT
A dollar a week doesn't sound like much money. But here is what a poor Boston family would be deprived of by a cutting of $1 in the weekly dollar given by the city:
1 quart milk 11¢
1 cake yeast 2¢
2 lbs. flour for five loaves of bread 27¢
2 lbs. potatoes 10¢
1/2 pound cheese 13¢
1/2 quart beans 13¢
1 package tea 10¢
Butter 1/4 lb 15¢
1 package crackers 4¢
Total 111¢
According to any number of poor mothers who must depend on the city for the maintenance of themselves and their families, the cutting of a dollar would mean that their children must go to bed hungry a majority of the nights each week.

These mothers declare that it is necessary to send every penny with the greatest care and that then the dollar removed, actual want of food would be felt by every member of the family.

STRIKERS FEAR DYNAMITING OF HOMES

Keep the guards on duty throughout tonight and Sunday, regardless of the apparent appearance of peace that followed their arrival.

The sheriff and his deputies were called to the scene by the selection of the town after the acting Governor had refused to send the troops.

In addition to the deputies at the gates the town is today guarded by many city guards, including patrolmen sent from Brockton and State officers.

The town is already in turmoil over the riots at the foundry gates when a dozen were injured, and blood flowed on Cook street.

The town's small police force, however, is reinforced today by patrolmen from Brockton.

The three arrested in court today are: William Harris, president of the local moulder union; Rosamunde Duranette and Antonio Henrique, strikers.

Despite the fact that a temporary injunction against picketing by the strikers was issued by Judge Dillon in Brockton Superior Court, Chief Russell said that the men might continue to picket outside the gates until Tuesday next, always providing that it was peaceful picketing.

Men Charge Lockout at East Bridgewater

East Bridgewater, Dec. 11.—"Strikers" of the Old Colony Foundry claim that they are not on strike but were "locked out" by the company just as they were preparing to strike on November 21. The outbreak of trouble is a result of feeling gradually increasing in intensity since that date.

QUICK TRIP TO IRELAND FOR CHRISTMAS EVE

A novel stunt will be tried in ship-bird circles in this port Wednesday, when the Hamburg-American liner Thuringia calls here to embark passengers for Queenstown.

To save time so passengers may reach their homes in Ireland and Scotland for Christmas eve, David J. Hartigan, local agent, has arranged for a tender and tug to carry passengers and baggage from Commonwealth Pier to the entrance of the harbor.

Passengers will board the Thuringia from the tender. The stop will mean a saving of four or five hours at Queenstown and will enable scores to catch trains for home for Christmas eve.

ASK NEW TRIAL FOR MAN CONVICTED AS THUG

Claiming new evidence has been unearthed to prove the innocence of their client, attorneys for William A. Rolfe, serving a 25-year sentence for robbery while armed, today filed motions for a new trial. The motions were filed in Middlesex Superior Court where Rolfe, a 30-year-old, was convicted of holding in Station and Waverley. Attorneys claim new evidence shows Rolfe's South Boston at the time of the robbery.

HECHT DUE TO FLAY NICHOLS IN DOLE ROW

Grace F. Hartley of King Street, Roxbury, one of the welfare board members, "I believe it goes for the entire board, as a matter of fact."

Several others among the overseers spoke in a similar vein, indicating their continued acceptance of Hecht as their chairman in fact, not in name. Chairman Hecht, who was removed when he said the Mayor was to blame for the allowance reduction, contrary to the Mayor's own opinion, said he was preparing "a statement of facts."

THOMPSON TO RUN AGAIN FOR MAYOR OF CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—William H. Thompson, who served two terms as the city's chief executive, again is a candidate for Mayor in 1927, as a platform advocating repeal of the Volstead Act.

His announcement came at a political rally in response to 425,000 large cards piled ten feet deep in front of the speaker's stand.

"I accept, and with grateful thanks," said the war time mayor, when a speaker tossed him hat upon the cards and reminded him that he had promised to run for mayor if 500,000 pledges were obtained.

4 ACTRESSES DIE IN FIRE

Rome, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Trapped in their dressing rooms by flames which burned their escape and prevented the aid of firemen, four made their actresses were burned to death in the Apollo Theatre.

The fire, which started back stage from a short circuit electric wire, swept out beyond the curtain, throwing the audience in to panic. The thousands persons who were witnessing the show, however, managed to escape the flames.

Another panic occurred in the Apollo, where a performance of "Cavalleria" was in progress. The audience, hearing the roar of the flames in the Apollo and the screams of the women in their theatre started a run toward the exits. Assurance hastily yelled from the stage by directors of the theatre served to quiet the people and they marched quietly out to the street, to the tune of "The Royal March."

Klean-Heat Automatic Burner

Just a few short years ago little was known of heating the home with oil. Today the most dependable equipment is available to suit the size of the home.

This perfected application of oil to home heating is Klean-Heat. Without exception, the average home owner desires winter because of the excessive labor attendant upon the firing of coal.

The task of shoveling coal and repairing a furnace throughout the long winter months is not a pleasant anticipation either.

Now the home owner holds different thoughts of winter for the reason that Klean-Heat is an automatic oil burning system, the leading exponent of which is the Klean-Heat Company of Boston, located at 823 Boylston Street, Boston.

There are twelve outstanding points regarding Klean-Heat:

1. It is completely automatic, quiet in operation, simple and substantial in build, guaranteed for one year, requires no oil storage in the home.
2. It burns star oil, low grade kerosene or distillate, saving space and cost.
3. Heat value from oil can be installed in practically all types of heating plants.
4. It is endorsed by home inspectors.

WARMHOUSE OR WARM CELLAR?

It is more than the sum of money spent, during the past few years in heating cellars would reach a staggering total if the facts could be ascertained. And the regrettable fact is that there was no desire to heat cellars.

Until every heating plant is insulated thousands of dollars will continue to be wasted each winter.

Asbestos for insulating is very moderate in price either for the material or for the completion of a job by experts, and yet this simple covering so effectively insulates a heating plant that practically 100 per cent of the heat is carried into the rooms and none is lost into the cellar and outside.

The public appreciation of the efficacy of asbestos insulating is best illustrated by the tremendous increase being made by the companies handling this necessary product.

A foremost example of this is the Asbestos Caving & Textile Company which has expanded its plant and larger quarters at 21 North Main Street, Boston, to a business that has expanded to all parts of New England and to hire a staff of expert workmen for its insulating work.

Each winter offers estimates free of charge and are both whole and retail sales.

A Six Room Home of Brick, Stucco and Hall Timber

From the Office of William J. L. Ropp, Engineer-Builder.

Weatherwater half timber, mellowed stucco and rough textured brickwork have for centuries enhanced the charm of many of the quaint dwellings of the Old World. The six room house here illustrated is an effective adaptation of Elizabethan domestic architecture to American requirements.

It is practically an suburban setting the picturesque home of simple proportions, with attractively landscaped grounds, would make as pretty a homestead as one could desire.

Few houses of the same size contain rooms as large as those of this home. The kitchen, especially, is interestingly arranged. What a fine room the large living room is with its large bay and fireplace! The dining room is well above average in size.

On the second floor the sleeping room arrangement is good. These rooms contain large closets. In one of the front bedrooms a window seat.

Information regarding this home may be obtained by communicating with William J. L. Ropp, 234 Washington Street, Boston.

Like Santa's storehouse is this Chandler & Barber Xmas gift window. The well known hardware firm has adopted the slogan—"Give Useful Gifts."

The Chandler & Barber Company of No. 131 Summer Street, Boston, have especially equipped each of their show windows with a variety of useful and helpful assistance to any one seeking suggestions for worthwhile Christmas gifts for each member of the family.

There is a splendid assortment of excellent tools in utility or auto. There is a complete line of gifts for the auto owner for the woman. There are all sorts of household appliances and gifts of utility, including the latest in electric range, electric refrigerator, electric iron, electric vacuum, electric fan, electric heater, electric lamp, electric clock, electric alarm clock, electric radio, electric record player, electric typewriter, electric sewing machine, electric ironing board, electric clothes wringer, electric clothes dryer, electric clothes steamer, electric clothes brush, electric clothes comb, electric clothes brush, electric clothes comb, electric clothes brush, electric clothes comb.

Both the shower and the scale are sensible Christmas gifts, according to the Boston Plumbing and Heating Supply Company, who have the largest display rooms of their kind in Boston at No. 111 Portland Street. And why not? The workrooms are located less than two minutes' walk from the North Station.

Sounds Like Family Stuff.

If Blanche Ring of "Cradle Snatchers" feels pangs of homesickness she has only to step across the street from the Hippodrome to the "Met" to see her husband, Charles Winniger, who was filmed with her brother-in-law, Thomas Meighan, in "The Canadian."

STAGE AND SCREEN

DOWNTOWN SHOWSHOPS ALL MARK TIME AS THE MERRY HOLIDAY SEASON ADVANCES

THERE AIN'T NO JUSTICE! when a fellow's girl may be lured away by a piano-playing automobile salesman. These are the bitter thoughts of William Zamey, as "Tommy" (Clark), while he observes Peg Entwistle and Alan Duce.

FOR CONSPICUOUS TAILOR with "the automobiles from Amertown." In "The Big Parade" (Majestic), Tom Meighan wears the palm for amorous adventures and is duly escorted by Joe Smith and Karl Hess.

JOLLY JUNIOR flirts through those endearing young charms—in the person of Mildred Bert— in "The Jolly Junior" revue to be seen and heard next week at the Olympia.

HER ADMIRERS are legion. In "Don Getz" at the Tremont, Alice Joyce receives a call from Norman Trevor, the French Foreign Legion officer.

A LESSON IN CHARM is given by Helen Hayes and Lumsden Hume at each performance at the Plymouth. Better hurry, there's only one week left to see "What Every Woman Knows."

DRAMA WITHOUT SEX PROBLEM USELESS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

IS the so-called sex play as bad as it has been painted, or, to put it in another form, can there be a first class, stimulating drama without the sex problem? Taking the words right off the lips of Julia Sanderson, the answer to the first question is a colossal, ringing "NO!" and to the second there is uttered an equally unequivocal: "It can't be done." So much for the sex complex as viewed by a nice girl who has played hob with many an eager suitor in the familiar old triangle of the theatre.

SEVEN words, you might say, from a fluffy queen of musical comedy—but born of deep conviction. "The sex problem," Miss Sanderson repeated, "penetrates every successful play—or musical comedy. It has been so since the time Shakespeare began turning out manuscripts for the sylvan drama of his period. Sex and the theatre have run hand in hand through the centuries, just as it has been the mainspring of all sound literature. It is true, of course, that many authors have been more deft and subtle in their treatment, but the fact remains that the 'bottle of the sex' is and always will be the life of the theatre as well as the pivot upon which all humanity spins."

NATURALLY, Miss Sanderson prefers to draw a hard, straight line between the sex problems considered as an important and necessary part of the drama and the coarse expostulations designed for box office efficiency. "There is a great difference in these exhibitions," she exclaimed. "A play without sex interest would be about as disappointing as sex without drama. Give me a play without sex interest in any form and I will prophesy a dismal failure. It has been that way since the theatre began and it is likely to continue for some time, if the signs of the times mean anything."

EVEN to so simple a comedy as that presented by "Queen High" the sex importance runs high. Miss Sanderson herself, though not engaged in any shocking complications, discovers that the sex subplot prevails in all its amusing play. If it were not for the fact that, in the theatre at least, the feminine side of the eternal triangle usually enjoys the playwright's sympathy, she would find her task something to be taken with apprehension. On paper the beds are as neat as any many pounds, for the conflict reveals on one side a daily mix of 320 pounds, while the masculine foe measures up to 240 pounds in the case of Frank Crumit and an ample 200 (the female) for John R. Marshall. In any event the sex complex of "Queen High" gives Miss Sanderson a soaring mark for a target.

STILL, the sex problem in the theatre moves on, she declared, "and has moved on relentlessly. In our own Boston theatre you have seen beautifully illustrated in 'Cradle Snatchers' in 'What Every Woman Knows' and in 'Tommy' from Shakespeare to 'Way Down East' and 'Seventh Heaven' is a broad stretch of time, but at no moment in all that period has the theatre been without its sex appeal and sex problems. Thus we have a wonderful theatre." And that's that.

THE RECKLESS LADIES IN FABIAN FILM

REDTIDE STORY. In "Summer Beaches" (dramatization of the Boston Evening American serial story, Midge Holliday and Olive Tell tell it every eight hours.

Lady of Song

MARGARET RONAINE will lift clear soprano voices for the audience of R. F. Keith patrons next week.

SEES POWERS IN WOMEN

Eva Fay, the "High Priestess of Mystery," who comes to the Lowell's Grand Opera House, says that all other women possess the intuitive instincts that she does, but they fail to concentrate and develop those instincts to the degree she has.

Forakes the Gilded Cage For the Gilded Stage

Most actors droop their way through to stardom, if at all. Not so with Kenneth MacKenna, who left the John Board of "What Every Woman Knows" and headed west for Helen Hayes at the Plymouth.

Negroid Humor to Sparkle in New Casino Billing

Tim Moore, whose name would indicate a Celtic origin, is in reality one of the highest-class collect-comians with Ed. K. Daley's "Cradle Snatchers" and "The Jolly Junior" will be the attraction next week at Waldron's Casino.

NEXT WEEK'S NEW BILLS

REPERTORY—"The Adding Machine," a play by Elmer L. Rice. A fantastic story showing the brain storm of an old book keeper when told that he is to be discharged and an adding machine put in his place. In the cast are Ralph Roberts, August Gull, Ruth Taylor, Guy Phillips, Mark Schwind, William Faversham, Jr., Agnes Scott, Mercedes Baynor and Robert Hamilton. Staged by Henry Jewett.

WALDRON'S CASINO—"Barin' To Go," a musical revue about equally divided in personnel between whites and negroes, with a total muster roll of 75 people. Among the whites are Jack Kincaid, Billy Tanner, Lew Denney, George Manning, Ruby Flanagan, Midge Gibbons and Dorothy Alexander. The darker shades are represented by Jimmy Ferguson, Tim Moore, Billy Andrews, Gerlie Moore and Edith Spencer. There are sixteen Lulu Belles and a male dancing chorus. Produced by Ed E. Daley.

CASTLE SQUARE—"Grounds for Divorce," a satire on marriage by Guy Bolton. Presents with romantic cynicism some of the amusing fiascos and out of wedlock. In the cast are Adelyn Bushnell, Jerry Bradford, Betty Umnor, Peggy Shanon, Jack Marvin, Josephine Fox, Hamilton Clurkey and George Farrow. Staged by Thomas Magrath.

GAVETT—"Let's Go," musical revue with high tension turns and specialties. In the southeasterly allied contingents are "Babe" Healy, Ray LeAnne and Bobe Almond. For songsters and dancers, there are Helen Flynn, Harold Dean, Eddie Hall, "Red" Marshall and sixteen prouetting daughters of Eve.

One More Ziegfeld Pupil Invades the Movies

John Winston, now appearing in "My Official Wife," new film at the Modern and Beacon, had made up her mind to attend Bryn Mawr, and for that purpose graduated from the Dartington Seminary in Winstchester, N. Y.

Fascinated, however, with the beauty of the Fokine Ballet, she decided to devote her talents to the "light fantastic" and soon became the Oriental dancer in the Ben All troupe.

FREEDOM'S APOSTLE FOR MERRY WIVES

BLANCHE RING, one of the oppressed, blackened domestic rebellion and leads the shrill-sounding nation on a hilarious rampage in "Cradle Snatchers" at the Met.

She's All Set

EDITH SPENCER and a two-shaded company of entertainers in "Let's Go" at Waldron's Casino.

NAUGHTY, BUT EFFECTIVE

To "sympathize" with music with films has become a fine art in the motion picture world. In "Lost Girls," now on view at the Tremont, every routine throughout the course of the exciting tale is not by the film's music, and through the medium of his score the interested audience obtains additional thrills.

But Dr. Eisenstein's attitude in the estimation of the comedy lovers in the audience, his highest point when he recruits, having lined up for in front of the two Americans, Hank and Budy, but as he passes beyond them, the lips of Hank are seen charged to form themselves into what undoubtedly is a group of very naughty words.

Art Flourishes in Whorl Family—and At Copley

Richard Whorf, senior young member of the Copley Theatre Players, happier than usual last week. And all because of the honors conferred upon his brother, John, at the exhibition of water colors which the latter had displayed to admiring connoisseurs.

Art, however, is not limited to the two members of the Whorf family. The father is a well-known artist, and the mother, Mrs. Whorf, is a painter of some note.

Little "Willie" Would Be Better Seen Than Heard

Sometimes in a play there are interesting characters who are heard but not seen by the audience. "Tommy" now at the Park, the new play by the "Theatre Guild" of a neighbor. Throughout the action of the play the voice of "Willie" or his mother, Mrs. Whorf, is heard but not seen by the audience.

Rattling the Old Skeleton.

Henry Hadley, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, as heard in the Viaphone program at the Colonial, is a native of Somerville. He has written two operas, more than 150 songs, and has composed several symphonies.

MELISANDE'S BELIEF WAS CIRCUS PLAYED AT PERFORMER

Born on a circus lot at Littleton, Colo., the first man of the North, who has been a much-neglected composer at Symphony Hall during the last few years, was featured at yesterday afternoon's concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Serge Koussevitzky.

The great Finnish composer's Seventh Symphony was played for the first time in Boston. At least the latter was very much disappointed in the marked individuality of the music, which he has been previously heard here. Melisande has hitherto been noted as a musician who goes his own way, unimpressed by the drifts and currents of music about him.

Yesterday, however, the music sounded for the first part very much like the futile striving in which the modernist contemporaries are wont to indulge.

"Finlandia," the well-known symphonic poem of the same composer, was given a brilliant performance by the orchestra. In fact, Mr. Koussevitzky was so much determined to follow the best of other conductors, who have made of the work a showpiece. Musically the outstanding feature was the beautiful playing of Stravinsky's "The Night of the Hunters." Mr. Koussevitzky was a sympathetic and understanding conductor of this music, it is indicated by the reviews.

A concert for orchestra in D major by C. F. E. Bach, appeared in the program. This piece, arranged by Hans Knipfing, was introduced here two years ago by Mr. Koussevitzky. Yesterday's performance served to display the rich tone of the strings.

"IRISH DESTINY"

In response to many requests, the film, "Irish Destiny," will be given a repeat performance today at Tremont Temple. It is an historical account of the Republic's uprising, led in Ireland on the actual spot of the dramatic events, which romance has been interwoven for good measure.

CAMPUS CUT-UPS IN 'COLLEGE DAYS'

Snows Come and Go, Sport Goes On Forever

WHEN THE IRISH WERE REALLY GREEN. This photo, from the collection of Dr. J. P. Naughton of Los Angeles, is of Notre Dame's first football team, in 1888, without a win to its credit. Left to right (seated) Hal Jewett, Joe Cusick, Art Zahn and Ed Pruden. Standing, first two unknown, "Six Boom" Hawkins, Lehr, Pat Nelson, Eugene Melady and George Springer.

MASHERS BEWARE! No spooning with these girls who are well padded for basketball. They are the Misses Madeleine Utter, Pauline Strittmatter and Evelyn O'Connor of St. Anselm's in the Bronx.

CHING, CHING. Chinaman, No. 1's "Ching" Johnson, speedy skater on the sensational New York Rangers, and he's all set to go. The Rangers now are the class of the National Hockey League.

WHAT PRICE RUTH? The great Babe, after his greatest year, is still awaiting the verdict of the New York Yankee management as to how much he is worth to the club for the season of 1927. How much is he worth?

YOU KNOW ME. Al! Yes, it's Al Miller, Harvard's sprinter and half-back, only this time he's putting the shot. Al is one of the most versatile athletes in Cambridge.

FROM B. C. TO B. A. A. Tom Cavanaugh, last year's track leader at Boston College, who will tread the boards for the Unicorns during the Winter track season. He shines at the mile run.

BACK ON THE BOARDS. Frank Hussey, sensational Boston College sprinter, who has begun the hard Winter grind in preparation for the indoor season. He is now running on the board track at the Heights.

A PEEWEE in stature, but a large order in ability is "Peewee" Manning, former New York Yankee shortstop, who has been procured from St. Paul by the Boston Red Sox.

DIVERS DETAILS are taken care of by Dave Brown, star diver on the crack Huntington School swimming team. He can do 'em all, the back flip, scissors, jackknife, swan and sailors' dives, and many more. The fans flock to dives like this.

A NECKLACE of gold footballs could be worn by Herb Sieger, former Michigan flash, who has won a total of seven. He won his last as assistant coach at Northwestern, Big Ten champions.

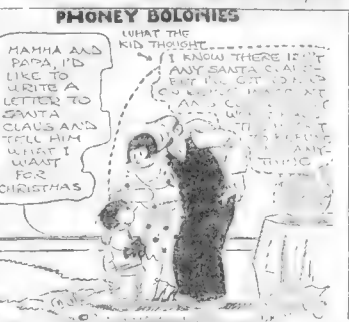

SOME STRADDLE! Hal Winkler, the clever goal tender of the sensational New York Rangers, shows how to spread yourself so that the elusive rubber can't get by and into the net. The Rangers are going strong and any of their opponents will tell you that shooting past Winkler is no task for a nervous stickman. As you see, he's all over the cage. What can you do in a case like that?

Medbury Says--

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.
NEW YORK city has over 100 dress suit stations where a man can rent a tuxedo by the hour. Why buy your own tuxedos when you can wear somebody else's pants suit?
FOR a dollar and a half you can hire a wonderful suit with buttons on it.
NORMALLY has to know. With a little practice you can learn to act like you own it.
WHICH these service stations make their money is on the stage. They charge ten cents a spot.
WHATEVER you pull on the suit is easy to them.
ONE guy was so sloppy at the table the other evening that he ran up a bill of seventeen dollars.
THAT taught him a lesson and the next time he went out he pulled everything on the table cloth.
HE carries a portable windshield around with him now to put on grapefruit.
HE'S becoming so expert that he can broadcast the juice in any body's eye.
ONE man says it's unlucky to be married in a rented tuxedo. That's silly, you're taking just as much chance no matter whose clothes you wear.

A CHICAGO bride shot the groom the other day and he had his own suit on.
A DETROIT fellow always makes a practice of hiring a tuxedo when he goes calling on a girl. He wants to save the year and tear on the hip.
WHY should he get his own trousers shiny?
RESIDER. If a man rents a dress suit, his wife can't kick when he finds a blonde hair on the coat.
HER husband can blame it on the fellow who wore it the night before.
IF your wife is a brunette and you discover a couple of blonde hairs on your head, you can take them down town and have them dyed.
IT's a ways a good idea to carry a bottle of peroxide in your vest pocket.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.
GRUPPE of us ladies was talking this afternoon, and Ma, and the subject was the threat among married people of this day. We differed as to give anyone, either, and Ma.
That is not so strange, and Pa. Gruppe of lady can settle things by grabbing, and Pa.
Gabe! and Ma, thank you so much. How silly it is of me, and Ma, to discuss matters with you and a group of understanding on your part, and Ma.
I beg your pardon, wife, and Pa. I didn't mean that. No doubt you ladies had a very interesting afternoon, and Pa, no doubt. So you girls think there is a good deal of threat among married folks today. So you? and Pa.
There certainly is, and Ma. We see it on every side of us. In our States, in our own State and even in our own town, and Ma.
I was afraid you were going to say in different Ma, and Pa. I am glad I guess Ma has been pretty well, and with two or three little like you.
So you think your old father is a ruffian, and to my dad.
No, I ruffian, do you, Bobbie? and Pa.
No, I said, if it came were you are better you would only waste me. I see, which would be all the more prove cents.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND.
WIFE used to call it platonic friendship—now it's just "being good girls."
But it's the same beautiful old myth, in which every man tries to believe, every woman longs to believe, and both of them pretend to believe.
Somewhere, this glorified affection always ends in the same place—on a divorce trial.
What a man really wants is not platonic friendship, but a sort of the natural LOVE—a non-inflammable, non-indulgent emotion, guaranteed to stimulate him, but not to make him so dizzy that he will stumble into any serious admission.
When a man begins talking of being "good pals," a clever woman takes with a cryptic smile, and he knows that when you put the LID on love, you surely hasten the combustion.
A man doesn't suggest "platonic friendship" until he finds himself growing too weak to struggle against a woman's charms, and fears he is going down for the third time. Then he grasps desperately at the "good pals" raft.
An "chile" fights against the "bandman," so a man fights against falling in love—and the myth of platonic friendship is the fairy tale which he hopes will keep his eyes open.
But Platonic Friendship, alas, is a ship which starts from Norway, and always ends in the harbor of Love, or goes down in a storm of non-understanding.
